owala®

The Challenge:

Owala is known for it's eye catching designs and patented FreeSip lid. As the bottle market becomes oversaturated, Owala needs a fresh reason to stay on top of mind by connecting hydration to the self-care routines consumers already prioritize.

What We Know:

For many consumers, carrying a resusable waterbottle and following a hair care routine are both daily habits. They already associate healthy hair with hydration. We don't need to create a new behaviors, we need to invite consumers to see these existing rituals into one seamless summer routine.

The Opportunity Gap:

Conusmers invest in premium hair products but often overlook one of the simplest foundations of healthy hair: consistent hydration. Wellness rountines are disconnected instead of working together.

The Vision:

Hydration, Head to Toe

A limited edition collaboration that turns hydration into a complete beauty ritual. Featuring exclusive Owala bottles, hydration tracking challenges, and Amika's mousterizing haircare, the campaign encourages consumers to care for their hair from the inside out.

CHARMS:

To make the collaboration more interactive, each limited-edition Owala bottle includes a collectible enamel charm inspired by hydration and amika's signature floral designs. The charms transform the bottle into a personalized accessory while encouraging consumers to collect, trade, and share their favorites on social media, extending engagement beyond the product itself.

Research:

“The Owala FreeSip bottle—paired with our uncommon and irreverent marketing—allows people to express themselves in a way that makes staying hydrated uniquely personal and fun. It makes hydration anything but basic."

(Utah, Owalalife, 2023)

“It’s part of how you present to the world… people are making judgments about what you care about … based on how you are consuming liquid.”

(Donlan, Khaw, Boston Globe, 2024)

“If Owala wants to go beyond being a viral product and become a long-term brand, there’s a lot of room to grow. For one, they could lean more into lifestyle integrations. The bottle is already a staple in people’s daily routines – so why not own that space?”

(Snyder, MarketerGems, 2025)
